SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

Files of Balto. CI T-1, another Governmental investigative agency, reflect Mr. FRIEDMAN was subject of background investigation conducted by T-1 in 1943 in connection with his application for position with T-1. Investigation developed no information reflecting adversely upon intelligence, ability, character, integrity, loyalty or discretion of FRIEDMAN, but he was not favorably considered for position because of his generally poor physical condition and appearance.

BA 77-4236

A Personal History Statement dated April 19, 1943, submitted by FRIEDMAN in connection with that application, and an interview with FRIEDMAN on May 17, 1943 in connection with his application, reflected that he had been born on February 8, 1916 in New York, New York. His father, HENRY MICHAEL FRIEDMAN was also a native born citizen of the United States. His mother, JULIA FREEDMAN FRIEDMAN, was born in Russia, emigrated to the United States approximately forty years prior to 1943, and became a citizen of the United States by reason of her marriage to FRIEDMAN's father. The interviewing official reported that FRIEDMAN's general appearance was unfavorable, that he was very slow and not too forceful in his speech, and that he had had no previous experience in connection with the type of position he was seeking.

In addition to the interview with Mr. FRIEDMAN, the investigation conducted by Informant T-1 consisted of a review of his employment record with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; a review of his Army service record at Camp Lee, Virginia; a check of the records of the FBI, Philadelphia; a check of the files of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; and interview with fourteen persons in Philadelphia and Camp Lee who had known FRIEDMAN from six months to fifteen years as supervisors, co-workers, neighbors, landlords and/or acquaintances.

The files of Baltimore Confidential Informant T-2, another agency of the Federal Government, conducting personnel and intelligence investigations, were also checked.

This investigation by informant T-1 developed no information reflecting adversely upon the intelligence, ability, character, integrity, loyalty or discretion of FRIEDMAN; however, two of the persons interviewed, declared that they did not believe he was strong or rugged physically and one questioned his ability to stand up under the pressure of hard work or long hours. A former landlady described FRIEDMAN as frail and almost sickly, and of a very retiring nature. A number of persons commented unfavorably on FRIEDMAN's general physical appearance, but added that his pleasing personality largely offset this appearance after a person became better acquainted with him. Because of his generally poor physical condition and appearance, FRIEDMAN was not favorably considered for the position.

The files of Informant T-1 further reflect that FRIEDMAN on April 9, 1943, had been rejected for attendance at Officers Candidate School.

BA 77-4236

[REDACTED] Personnel Section, Sixth Quartermaster Training Regiment, Camp Lee, Virginia, expressed the opinion to T-1 that FRIEDMAN had been refused for Officers Candidate School because of his poor physical appearance and because the quota for the school had been cut. The files further reveal that on May 19, 1943, FRIEDMAN was placed on limited military service because of defective vision.

DETAILS: At Washington, D. C.

The names DANIEL MORTIMER FRIEDMAN and "DANNY" have been added to the title of this report, inasmuch as the applicant's personnel file at the Securities and Exchange Commission reflects his full name to be DANIEL MORTIMER FRIEDMAN, and investigation reflects him to be affectionately known among his friends as "DANNY."

EMPLOYMENT

The applicant's personnel file in the Personnel Office of the Securities and Exchange Commission reflects that he received a temporary appointment as associate attorney, Public Utilities Division, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, effective March 23, 1942. He was placed on furlough (Army), effective September 25, 1942. He returned from military furlough and was transferred as attorney (temporary), Opinion Writing Office, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, effective March 18, 1946. He was promoted to attorney (permanent), Opinion Writing Office, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on September 9, 1946. The applicant was transferred from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to Washington, D. C., effective January 5, 1948, and was promoted to attorney--adviser (assistant to Commissioner), Executive Staff, Office of Commissioner McENTIRE, Washington, D. C., effective September 23, 1948, which position he holds at the present time.

This file further reflects that the applicant was born February 18, 1916 at New York, New York, to HENRY MICHAEL FRIEDMAN, born in New York City, and JULIA FRIEDMAN, nee FREEDMAN, born in Russia. From October 1, 1937 to October 1, 1940, the applicant lived at 186 Riverside Drive, New York, New York. From April 1, 1942 to September 10, 1942, and from September 15, 1947 to October 6, 1947 he resided at 336 South Smedley Street. From April 1, 1946 to September 15, 1946 he lived at 1632 Pine Street, and from June 25, 1947 to September 15, 1947 he resided at 1520 Spruce Street, all Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The applicant was employed during the Summer of 1938 at Camp Cayuga, Adirondaks, owned by JULIUS RITTER, 617

West End Avenue, New York City. During the Summer of 1939 he did research under Professor JOSEPH P. CHAMBERLAIN, Columbia University, and was Editor of the "Spectator," Columbia College, date not given.

Commissioner RICHARD B. McENTIRE, Securities and Exchange Commission, advised that he chose the applicant as his assistant in the early part of 1948, and that he selected the applicant because of his legal ability and general good reputation. He stated that he does not know much about the applicant's personal life, but that he is unmarried, his personal habits are good, he is a social drinker only, and appears to have a normal, active social life. He stated that he has found the applicant to be completely trustworthy and his views to be in no way subversive. Commissioner McENTIRE said that the applicant appears somewhat young for his age and is not a dominant individual. He said that the applicant is a very competent writer, that he expresses himself somewhat better on paper than orally, although he does a good job orally. He stated that the applicant has prepared and tried cases before the Securities and Exchange Commission, and that he received recognition for an outstanding job on one especially involved case before the Commission. He further stated that he would like very much to keep the applicant in his present position because he is the best assistant that he has had or hopes to have, but that he realizes that the applicant should have a better opportunity to use his legal ability. He concluded by stating that he recommends the applicant as an exceptionally capable, thorough and conscientious attorney.

[redacted] attorney, Public Utilities Division, Securities and Exchange Commission, advised that he has known the applicant socially and professionally since 1947, and that he has high regard for the applicant's character, associates, loyalty and reputation. He said that he is well acquainted with the applicant's work before the Commission, and that he has no doubt of the applicant's ability to prepare and try a case. He said that the applicant has prepared and tried cases for the Commission, and that in one involved and complicated case he won the respect of lawyers, both in and out of the Commission. [redacted] described the applicant as a very capable legal scholar, and said that he recommends the applicant to the Department of Justice as an attorney.

(WFO 77-34889)

[redacted] Personnel, Securities and Exchange Commission, stated that he has known the applicant for about ten years as a fellow employee. He said that the applicant is affectionately known as "DANNY" by his friends. He stated that he is well acquainted with the applicant, but that he does not know any other members of his family. [redacted] declared that the applicant has the reputation of being a very capable, thorough and hard-working attorney. He stated that Commissioner McENTIRE is the applicant's immediate superior, and that Commissioner McENTIRE is a perfectionist and will not accept anything but the best in his office. He said that the applicant is respected and well regarded by the other lawyers in the Commission, and that everyone speaks highly of his outstanding legal ability. [redacted] stated that as far as he knows, the applicant's loyalty has never been questioned, and that he recommends him without hesitation to the Department of Justice as an attorney.

b6
b7C

The following interview was conducted by SA [redacted]

b6
b7C

[redacted] attorney, Office of Price Stabilization, advised that he has known the applicant since early 1946, when he and the applicant were fellow employees of the Securities and Exchange Commission. He said that he knows applicant socially and considers him to be his best friend. [redacted] described the applicant as sober, of good morals, intelligent and a social drinker only. He stated that he does not know any other members of the applicant's family, but that the applicant's associates, loyalty, character and reputation are good. He concluded by stating that there is no question of the applicant's complete loyalty to our present form of government, and that he recommends the latter highly as an attorney.

[redacted] advised that the applicant was a friend of hers, whom she had met in about 1941 or 1942 through friends of hers. [redacted] starting about 1941 or 1942, and lived at this address for about two years. Concerning the applicant's character, she stated that he is a gentleman, [redacted] highly educated, [redacted] a Harvard graduate, discharges obligations, does not drink, and is of the highest calibre. Concerning the applicant's loyalty she stated, "It is below the dignity of such a person to be investigated for a position with the Government after he has already given ten years of his life to the Government. The Government should have more men like him in it." She would not make any positive statement concerning the applicant's loyalty to this country. Concerning the applicant's associates, [redacted] stated that she knew none of the applicant's associates in Philadelphia. She advised that she hears about him occasionally from friends, but refused to divulge the identity of any persons who might know the applicant or any further information concerning him.

Special Access to Sensitive Compartmented Information
Granted To: Daniel M. Friedman

Philip W. Modlin
Deputy Associate Attorney General

The subject Department of Justice employee is presently — assigned to duties in the Solicitor General's Office, which requires access to Sensitive Compartmented Information (SCI).

Director of Central Intelligence Directive (DCID) No. 1/14 requires a re-investigation where the previous investigation is more than five years old whenever access to Sensitive Compartmented Information is granted. In order to fulfill our commitment to the Central Intelligence Agency, it is requested that you arrange for the background investigation concerning this individual to be updated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This action will enable us to certify as current the Top Secret Clearance for this employee and to meet the requirements of DCID 1/14 for Special access to Sensitive Compartmented Information.

A completed Form 86 for the subject employee is attached.

Daniel M. Friedman's last FBI investigation was completed on April 10, 1951.

It is requested that you advise this office telephonically when the background investigation has been initiated.

REFERENCE

Details: On August 15, 1977, RALPH SPRITZER, Professor of Law, University of Pennsylvania Law School, Philadelphia, Pa., advised that he and the applicant worked together in the Solicitor General's Office in the late 1950's. Since that time, the two men have enjoyed continued contact, and SPRITZER considers the applicant to be a good friend.

SPRITZER described FRIEDMAN as a very able lawyer with an excellent character, conscientious and very highly regarded. SPRITZER added that he and others in the field of law have great respect for the applicant. He noted FRIEDMAN's reputation, associates and loyalty are excellent. SPRITZER has never heard any information which would reflect negatively on the applicant. SPRITZER concluded that FRIEDMAN was an outstanding lawyer and therefore would consider him qualified and recommend him for the position.

- (c) Names of your children, with age, address and present occupation of each.

I have no children, but have four step-children by marriage.

6. Have you had any military service? If so, give dates, branch of service, rank, serial number and present status. If discharged, state character of discharge.

Yes. September 1942 to February 1946. Army of the United States, Quartermaster Corps. Master Sergeant. 33332990. Honorable discharge.

7. List each college and law school you attended; including dates of attendance, the degrees awarded and, if you left any institution without receiving a degree, the reason for leaving. Include the following:

- (a) College - major academic achievements and other significant activities.

Columbia College, A.B. 1937. Honors in government and history. Managing Board, Columbia Daily Spectator (Assistant Managing Editor). Also served on staff of Columbia Jester (humor magazine) and Columbian (yearbook).

- (b) Law School - major academic and other activities (e.g., Coif, Law Review, moot court, etc.)

Columbia Law School, LL.B. 1940. Editor, Columbia Law Review, 1938-1940. Second in class first year, first in class last year. Kent Scholar (honorary scholarship) 1938 and 1940.

8. List all courts in which you have been admitted to practice, with dates of admission. Give the same information for administrative bodies which require special admission to practice.

New York, 1941.

United States Supreme Court, 1948.

United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, 1955.

United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, 1957.

United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, 1959.

9. Describe chronologically your legal and other experience since your graduation from law school, including:

(a) whether you served as law clerk to a judge,

No.

(b) whether you practiced law alone;

I have never practiced alone.

(c) the dates, names and addresses of law firms or offices, companies, governmental agencies, or other organizations with which you have been connected, and the nature of your connection with each.

In private practice in New York, New York, 1940-1942:

1940-1941: Associated with Newman & Bisco,
29 Broadway.

1941-1942: Associated with I. N. Thurman,
393 Seventh Avenue (single practitioner).

1942-1951: Legal Staff, Securities and Exchange Commission, Philadelphia, Pa. and Washington, D.C. Served with the Public Utilities Division, the Opinion Writing Office, and as legal assistant to a Commissioner (Richard B. McEntire, deceased).

1951-1959: Appellate Section, Antitrust Division, Department of Justice. Became Assistant Chief of the Section in 1954.

1959-present: Office of the Solicitor General, Department of Justice. Served as Assistant to the Solicitor General, 1959-1962. Appointed Second Assistant to the Solicitor General in 1962 and First Assistant to the Solicitor General (now known as First Deputy Solicitor General) in 1968. That is the top staff post in the Office, directly under the Solicitor General.

(d) law teaching experience, including name of law school, dates, courses, and faculty rank.

None.

R 3

10. (a) If you have practiced law, what was or has been the general character of your practice, dividing it into periods with dates if its character has been changed over the years?

My private practice in New York City (1940-1942) was mainly corporate and banking work, and general business work with a single practitioner.

My work at the Securities and Exchange Commission (1942-1951) was in administrative, corporate and securities law. Some administrative litigation. Worked on major Commission opinions, and gave general legal assistance to a Commissioner.

My work at the Department of Justice has been exclusively appellate. In the Appellate Section of the Antitrust Division (1951-1959) I worked mainly on Supreme Court matters, but also handled a number of cases in the United States Courts of Appeals. Since joining the Office of the Solicitor General in 1959, I have worked exclusively on Supreme Court cases (other than reviewing recommendations whether the federal government should appeal cases it has lost in the lower courts to an appellate court, which is only a small part of the work of the Office).

A brief description of the functions of the Office of the Solicitor General may be helpful in putting my experience there in context and perspective. The primary function of the Solicitor General is representing the federal government before the Supreme Court. The Office has a small legal staff (ranging from 8 to 18 during the period I have been there). The lawyers' primary function is to prepare government briefs and other documents for filing in the Supreme Court. They frequently completely reshape and rewrite briefs that have been initially drafted in the operating divisions of the Department of Justice or in other departments and agencies. There are five deputies, each of whom has responsibility for particular subject matter. As the First Deputy, I have overall supervisory authority for the Office. During my years as a supervisor, I have performed reviewing functions for all types of government cases in the Supreme Court, including many in each of the areas within the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims: taxation, lands, Indian claims, civil claims against the United States, and government personnel.

I have argued more than 75 cases before the Supreme Court, and have reviewed and revised the briefs in several hundred. Many of these have been among the Court's major decisions in the past two decades.

- (b) Describe your typical clients, or former clients, and mention the areas, if any, in which you have specialized.

My clients have been the United States and its departments and agencies. My work has covered virtually all areas of federal law: administrative law (with particular emphasis on Federal Trade Commission, Federal Maritime Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, National Labor Relations Board and Securities and Exchange Commission), antitrust, civil, criminal, environmental, government contracts and claims, lands, tax.

11. With respect to the last five years (or the last five years in which you practiced law):

- (a) Did you appear in court regularly, occasionally or not at all?

Regularly.

- (b) What percentage of these appearances was in
(1) Federal courts.

100 percent.

- (c) What percentage of your litigation was
(1) Civil.
(2) Criminal.

Approximately 90 percent civil and 10 percent criminal.

- (d) State the number of cases in trial courts of record you tried to verdict or judgment (rather than settled), indicating whether you were sole counsel, chief counsel or associate counsel.

None.

- (e) What percentage of these trials was
(1) Jury.
(2) Non-jury.

Inapplicable.

12. Summarize your experience in court prior to the foregoing five year period, indicating as to that period:

- (a) Whether your appearances in court were more or less frequent.

Approximately the same frequency from 1959 to 1972. Somewhat less frequent from 1951-1959, when I was in the Antitrust Division.

- (b) any significant changes in the percentages stated in your answers to question 11(b) and (c).

No significant changes.

- (c) any significant changes in the number of cases per year in courts of record you tried to verdict or judgment (rather than settled), as sole counsel, chief counsel or associate counsel.

Inapplicable.

13. Experience in litigation.

- (a) Describe ten of the most significant litigated matters which you personally handled, in either trial or appellate court, and give the citations, if the cases were reported. Give a capsule summary of the substance of each case, and a succinct statement of what you believe to be the particular significance of the case. Identify the party or parties whom you represented; describe in detail the nature of your participation in the litigation and the final disposition of the case. Also, state as to each case, the dates of the litigation, the name of the court(s) and the judges(s) by whom the case was heard and decided, and the individual name, address and telephone numbers of co-counsel and of counsel for each of the other parties.

All of the cases discussed in this question were in the Supreme Court. In most of them I had a major role in preparing the brief. I argued all of them.

1. Bates and O'Steen v. State Bar of Arizona, No. 76-316, decided June 27, 1977. This case involved the validity, under the First Amendment and the antitrust laws, of a rule of the Arizona Supreme Court prohibiting lawyers from advertising. The importance of the case was that it marked the first time the Supreme Court had considered the legality of a ban on lawyers' advertising.

I argued the case for the United States as amicus curiae. I played a relatively minor part in the preparation of the government's brief. The United States argued that the Arizona prohibition on lawyers' advertising was not compatible with the First Amendment because a complete ban on all such advertising was more sweeping than was necessary to accomplish permissible state objectives in regulating the profession; but that the prohibition was immune from challenge under the antitrust laws because it was "state action." The Supreme Court basically took those positions.

Bates and O'Steen were represented by William C. Canby, Jr., 413 E. Loyola Drive, Tempe, Arizona 85282, and the State Bar of Arizona was represented by John P. Frank of Lewis & Roca, 100 West Washington Street, Phoenix, Arizona 85003.

2. E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co. v. Train, No. 75-978, decided February 23, 1977. The issues were: (1) Whether the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency has authority under the Federal Water Pollution Control Amendments of 1972 to promulgate for industrial categories binding numerical limits upon the amount of effluents that individual plants may discharge into navigable waters. The companies contended that the Administrator could only establish general guidelines for the different industrial categories, and then apply those guidelines to specify permissible limits for particular dischargers in the permits he would issue to them. (2) Whether the courts of appeals rather than the district courts have jurisdiction to review the Administrator's effluent limitations. The significance of the case is that under the petitioners' interpretation of the statute, the ability of the Administrator to meet the deadlines Congress set for complying with the generalized standards it prescribed for reducing and eliminating water pollution would have been seriously handicapped by the protracted litigation that would have resulted.

I represented the Administrator. I had a major role in preparing the brief; much of the analysis in it is mine; and I wrote a major part of it. The Court held that the Administrator may promulgate binding effluent limitations, and that the courts of appeals and not the district courts have jurisdiction to review those limitations.

The petitioners were represented by Robert C. Barnard of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton, 1250 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Telephone: Area Code 202, 223-2151.

3. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (January 30, 1976). This was a major case involving the constitutionality of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971. It involved the validity of the Act's limitations upon individual campaign contributions and upon campaign spending, its requirement for reporting and public disclosure of contributions and spending, its provision for public funding of Presidential campaign activities, and its creation of the Federal Election Commission to administer and enforce the Act. The Court upheld the contribution limitations, the reporting and disclosure requirements and the provision for public financing of Presidential campaigns, upheld in part but invalidated in part the limitations on campaign expenditures and held that the Federal Election Commission was invalidly constituted. The importance of the case lies in the fundamental and major changes the Act made in the methods for financing American political campaigns for federal office.

I had a significant, although not the major role in the preparation of the government's brief supporting the constitutionality of the statute, and I argued the case in behalf of the Attorney General and the Federal Election Commission (except with regard to the validity of the creation of the Commission). Four lawyers argued in support of the Act's constitutionality: Lloyd N. Cutler of Wilmer, Cutler & Pickering, 1666 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Telephone: Area code 202, 872-6000; Archibald Cox, Langdell Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138;

Ralph S. Spritzer, 3400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19174, and myself. Three lawyers argued against the validity of the Act: Ralph K. Winter, Jr., 127 Wall Street, New Haven, Connecticut 06520; Joel M. Gora, American Civil Liberties Union, 22 East 40th Street, New York, New York 10016; and Brice M. Clagett, of Covington & Burling, 888 - 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Telephone: Area code 202, 452-6306.

4. Administrator, Federal Aviation Administration v. Robertson, 422 U.S. 255 (1975). The question in this case was whether Exemption 3 of the Freedom of Information Act, which exempted from the disclosure requirements of that Act material "specifically exempted from disclosure by statute," applied where the statute providing exemption from disclosure left it to the discretion of the agency to decide whether to disclose. The case was important because there were approximately 100 statutes that provided exemptions from disclosure for various federal agencies, with different degrees of discretion and various standards for disclosure.

I represented the Administrator, and developed the basic theory upon which the government presented the case to the Supreme Court: that in Exemption 3 Congress intended to continue in effect the 100 statutes providing some form of exemption from disclosure. The Supreme Court so held.

The respondent was represented by Alan B. Morrison, 2000 P Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Telephone: Area code 202, 785-3704.

5. United States v. General Dynamics Corp., 415 U.S. 486 (1974). This was a major antitrust case in which the United States challenged, as a violation of Section 7 of the Clayton Act, the acquisition by a leading coal mining company in the midwest of another large coal company there. The case was important because it raised the question whether the Supreme Court would apply the principle developed in other merger cases that a merger producing a significant increase in the market share of the acquiring company in a concentrated industry was prima facie invalid. The Supreme Court held that the merger did not violate Section 7, primarily because it concluded that the government's data showing the substantial market shares of coal production that each of the merging companies held were refuted by evidence that in the coal industry the critical indicia of concentration related not to coal production but to coal reserves.

I played a major part in shaping and writing the government's brief, which framed the case so as to avoid the appearance of making a direct attack on the evidentiary basis of the district court's numerous detailed findings.

The appellee was represented by Reuben L. Hedlund of Kirkland & Ellis, 2900 Prudential Plaza, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

6. United States v. Glaxo Group Ltd., 410 U.S. 52 (1973). There were two questions in this civil antitrust case; (1) whether the Attorney General may challenge the validity of patents that are involved in an antitrust violation, where the defendants do not rely upon the patents as a defense, and (2) whether the district court improperly refused, as part of the relief it ordered, to require compulsory licensing under the patents and mandatory sales of the patented product. The case was important because the authority of the Attorney General to challenge the patents was uncertain--earlier Supreme Court decisions seemingly had indicated that he could set aside a patent only because of fraud in its procurement--and the right of the government to obtain compulsory licensing and mandatory sales had not been established. The Supreme Court held in the government's favor on both issues.

I rewrote the government's brief from an earlier draft, and I developed the legal theories and arguments that the brief presented.

The appellees in the case was represented by Henry P. Sailer of Covington & Burling, 888 - 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Telephone: Area code 202, 452-6116, and Sigmund Timberg, 815 - 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. Telephone: Area code 202, 393-1074.

7. Richardson v. Perales, 402 U.S. 389 (1971). The question was whether written reports by physicians of medical examinations they made of claimants for social security disability benefits may constitute substantial evidence to support the finding of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare that the claimant was not disabled, where the physicians making the reports did not testify and the only live testimony at the hearing was that the claimant was disabled. The question was important because the Secretary made wide use of and relied heavily upon such written reports, and was concerned that outstanding physicians would be reluctant to examine claimants if they would also be required to testify at the hearing. The Supreme Court held that the physicians' reports constituted substantial evidence of disability.

Although I did not play a major role in the writing of the government's brief, my oral argument was somewhat unusual. In preparation for the argument, I attended a hearing in a social security disability case. As a result, in response to questions I was able to describe the procedures at the hearing--a presentation that apparently satisfied the Court that the procedures of the Secretary were essentially fair.

The claimant in the case was represented by Richard Tinsman, 1907 National Bank of Commerce Building, San Antonio, Texas 78205.

8. Investment Company Institute v. Camp, 401 U.S. 617 (1971). The question was whether the Glass-Steagall Banking Act of 1933 prohibits a national bank from operating a mutual investment fund for its customers. The Comptroller of the Currency by regulation had authorized national banks to operate such a fund. The question was important because national banks had indicated a strong interest in operating such funds, while the investment company industry opposed them. The Supreme Court held that the Glass-Steagall Act does not permit such funds, and that the Comptroller's authorizing regulation therefore was invalid.

I appeared for the Comptroller of the Currency in defense of his regulation. I had a major role in writing the government's brief.

Archibald Cox, Langdell Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138, represented the First National City Bank, the organization seeking to operate the fund, and also supported the Comptroller's regulation. The petitioners were represented by G. Duane Vieth of Arnold & Porter, 1229 - 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Telephone: Area code 202, 872-6700.

9. United States v. Grinnell Corp., 384 U.S. 563 (1966). This was a major civil antitrust case in which the United States charged that Grinnell Corp. had monopolized the central station protective service business by acquiring the three leading firms in the industry, in violation of Section 2 of the Sherman Act. The case presented a number of complex and difficult issues including the selection of the appropriate geographic and product markets for determining the existence of monopoly power, the propriety of various forms of relief the district court had ordered to cure the violations it found, and the defendants' claim that the trial judge — should have recused himself because he was personally biased and prejudiced against them. The Supreme Court upheld the district court's decision that Grinnell had illegally monopolized the industry, sustained (with one minor exception, which the United States did not defend) the relief ordered, and ruled that the district judge was not biased and prejudiced. The case is important because of the further light it shed on the elements of and bases for determining monopolization, and its recognition of the discretion of the district court to enter broad relief in monopolization cases.

I had a major role in writing the extensive government brief, in which a number of important legal theories were developed.

The defendants were represented by John F. Sonnett of Cahill, Gordon, Reindel & Ohl, 80 Pine Street, New York, New York 10005 (Mr. Sonnett is deceased); Macdonald Flynn of White & Case, 14 Wall Street, New York, New York 10005; John W. Drye, Jr. of Kelly, Drye, Newhall, Maginnes & Warren, 350 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10022, and J. Francis Hayden of Stickles, Hayden, Kennedy, Hort & Van Steenburgh, 36 West 44th Street, New York, New York 10036.

10. United States v. Loew's Incorporated, 371 U.S. 38 (1962). This case involved the legality, under Section 1 of the Sherman Act, of "block booking" of motion pictures for television exhibition. Under the industry practice, motion picture distributors required television stations to accept a "package" containing a number of films selected by the distributors, and refused to license films on an individual basis. The case was important because the outcome would determine the method by which motion pictures would be distributed for television showing throughout the country. The Supreme Court held that the "block-booking" practices violated the Sherman Act, and directed the district court to enter broad relief, including the requirement that the defendants price films individually and offer them on a picture-by-picture basis.

I had a major part in preparing the government's brief, and developed the legal arguments made.

The defendants were represented by Louis Nizer, 1501 Broadway, New York, New York 10036; Myles J. Lane, 19 East 70th Street, New York, New York; Mervin C. Pollak, 733 Third Avenue, New York, New York 20017, and Justin M. Golenbock, 60 East 42nd Street, New York, New York.

(b) In addition to the appellate litigation that may be described in your response to the preceding inquiry, list other appeals (not to exceed 10) which you personally have handled, giving the name of the case, the court, the date of decision, and the citation if reported. As to each, indicate whether you wrote the brief or presented oral argument. Omit cases in which you had only a small part and did not either write most of the brief yourself or present oral argument.

1. National Labor Relations Board v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132 (1975) (argument).

2. United States v. Marine Bancorporation, 418 U.S. 602 (1974) (brief and argument).

3. Arnett v. Kennedy, 416 U.S. 134 (1974) (argument).

4. Ford Motor Co. v. United States, 405 U.S. 562 (1972) (brief and argument).

5. Tilton v. Richardson, 403 U.S. 672 (1971) (argument).

6. United States v. Phillipsburg National Bank & Trust Co., 399 U.S. 350 (1970) (brief and argument).

7. Citizen Publishing Co. v. United States, 394 U.S. 131 (1969) (argument).

8. Atlantic Refining Co. v. Federal Trade Commission, 381 U.S. 357 (1965) (brief and argument).

9. Platt v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co.,
376 U.S. 240 (1964) (brief and argument).

10. Malone v. Bowdoin, 369 U.S. 643 (1962) (argument).

14. (a) Have you ever held judicial office?

No.

15. Have you ever held public office other than judicial office?

No.

16. Have you ever been an unsuccessful candidate for elective, judicial, or other public office?

No.

17. Have you ever been engaged in any occupation, business or profession other than the practice of law, law teaching, or holding judicial or other public office?

No.

18. Are you now an officer or director or otherwise involved in the management of any business enterprise?

No.

19. Have you ever been arrested, charged, or held by federal, state, or other law enforcement authorities for violation of any federal law or regulation, state law or regulation, county or municipal law, regulation or ordinance?

No.

20. Have you, to your knowledge, ever been under federal, state or local investigation for possible violation of a criminal statute?

No.

B-14

21. Has a tax lien or other collection procedure ever been instituted against you by federal, state or local authorities?

No.

22. Have you ever been sued by a client?

No.

23. Have you ever been a party or otherwise involved in any other legal proceedings?

No.

24. Have you ever been disciplined or cited for a breach of ethics or unprofessional conduct by, or been the subject of a complaint to, any court, administrative agency, bar association, disciplinary committee, or other professional group?

No.

25. (a) What is the present state of your health?

Excellent.

(b) Have you in the past ten years (i) been hospitalized due to injury or illness or (ii) been prevented from working due to injury or illness or otherwise incapacitated for a period in excess of ten days? If so, give the particulars, including the causes, the dates, the places of confinement, and the present status of the conditions which caused the confinement or incapacitation.

Yes. In the past ten years I have undergone four operations for repair of an inguinal hernia. The original repair of a double hernia was done at George Washington University Hospital in Washington, D.C. in April and May 1969. Repairs were done at the same hospital in January 1970 and August 1971. The last repair was done in July 1974 at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, by a senior surgeon formerly with the Cleveland Clinic, who is particularly skilled in repairing hernias. Since then, I have had no problems, and recent checks have indicated that the repair is solid and tight.

- (c) Do you suffer from any impairment of eyesight or hearing or any other physical handicap?

No.

- (d) When did you have your most recent general physical examination and who was the supervising physician?

August 1977. Dr. Herbert A. Moskovitz, 1145 - 19th Street, N.W., Suite 702, Washington, D.C. 20036.

- (e) Are you currently under treatment for an illness or physical condition?

No.

- (f) Have you ever been treated for or had any problem with alcoholism or any related condition associated with consumption of alcoholic beverages or any other form of drug addiction or dependency?

No.

- (g) Have you ever been treated for or suffered from any form of mental illness?

No.

26. Attach a list of (a) all of your writings which have been published in a law review, law journal, or other legal periodical, (b) all writings which have been published in any other publication of general circulation, (c) all published books which you have written. Give title, full citation, and date of each. Furnish five examples of legal articles, books, briefs, or other legal writings which reflect your personal work. If briefs are submitted, submit only those which were written largely or entirely by you; indicate degree to which they represent your original work.

Articles; "Field Warehousing," 42 Columbia Law Review 991 (1942).

"SEC Regulation of Corporate Proxies," 63
Harvard Law Review 796 (1950).

"Expenses of Corporate Proxy Contests," 51 Columbia Law Review 951 (1951).

I have not published any articles in non-legal periodicals, or published any books.

The five briefs enclosed are ones in which I had a major role in developing and shaping the argument, and which I rewrote from a previous draft. They fairly reflect my written legal work.

27. If you have served as a full-time member of a university law faculty, describe any significant committee work, institutional assignments, or other institutional contributions while a faculty member.

Inapplicable.

28. List all bar associations and professional organizations of which you are a member and give the titles and dates of any offices which you have held in such groups. List also chairmanships of any committees in bar associations and professional societies, and memberships on any committees which you believe to be of particular significance in relation to legal ability and interests and qualifications for Court of Claims office.

American Bar Association.

Federal Bar Association.

American Law Institute.

I have not held office in any bar association or professional organization, and have not served on any committees that would be significant in evaluating my qualifications for the Court of Claims.

29. List all organizations and clubs other than bar associations or professional associations or professional societies of which you are or have been a member, including civic, charitable, religious, educational, social and fraternal organizations. If you are no longer a member, indicate approximate date your membership ceased.

Washington Ethical Society.
Woodley House (1968-1971).
Friends of Kennedy Center.
American Philatelic Society.
U.S. Philatelic Classics Society.
The Cosmos Club.

30. List any honors, prizes, awards or other forms of recognition which you have received (including any indication of academic distinction in college or law school) other than those mentioned in answers to the foregoing questions.

Attorney General's Exceptional Service Award (the highest award the Department of Justice gives) (1969).

Justice Tom C. Clark Award of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Federal Bar Association, presented annually to an outstanding career government lawyer (1976).

National Civil Service Career Service Award, presented annually to ten persons in the federal service (1976).

31. State any other information which may reflect positively or adversely on you, or which you believe should be disclosed in connection with consideration of you for nomination for the United States Court of Claims.

During my 26 years in the Department of Justice, and particularly during the 18 years I have been in the Office of the Solicitor General, I have developed a broad knowledge of all areas of federal law. I am sensitive to and thoroughly familiar with the policy considerations that control and determine the interpretation and application of that law in a wide variety of different circumstances. In the almost 15 years during which I have been in one of the two top supervisory posts in the Office, I have had a broad overview of the broader implications and concepts of federal law. As First Deputy Solicitor General, I have been delegated increasingly greater responsibility by the Solicitor General. While Solicitor General Bork was Acting Attorney General in late 1973 and early 1974, I ran the Office and was in effect the Solicitor General. I served as Acting Solicitor General for more than two months in the interval between the resignation of Solicitor General Bork in January 1977 and the assumption of office by Solicitor General McCree.

32. State, if you wish, the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three persons who are well acquainted with your legal ability.

Judge Oscar H. Davis, United States Court of Claims, 717 Madison Place, Washington, D.C. 20005. Telephone:
Area code 202, 633-7294.

I hereby waive any privilege of confidentiality I may have concerning information which the Panel may desire to obtain from any source concerning my qualifications for judicial office. I specifically authorize all institutions, organizations, schools, physicians, hospitals, and individuals to make available to the Panel, any information concerning me which the Panel may request.

CO-COUNSEL

On February 13, 1978, RALPH S. SPRITZER, professor of law, University of Pennsylvania Law School, 3400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., advised that he first met the applicant in the mid 1950's when the applicant was employed at the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Later, SPRITZER and FRIEDMAN became closely associated in the Solicitor General's Office where they worked together. SPRITZER observed that the applicant is a man of the highest integrity and a capable attorney. SPRITZER stressed that FRIEDMAN's character is excellent, his associates and loyalty to the United States is beyond reproach and his professional and personal reputation is very high. SPRITZER added that the ability and responsible conduct consistently demonstrated by the applicant while serving at the Solicitor General's Office has convinced him that the applicant is ideally suited to a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government. SPRITZER concluded by recommending FRIEDMAN.

Applicant's hospitalization at Fairview General Hospital from 7/8/74 until 7/15/74, for surgery to repair inguinal hernia verified from hospital records; surgeon interviewed.

- RUC -

Details:MEDICAL RECORDS

On February 13, 1978, a review of applicant's microfilmed hospital records at the Medical Records Section, Fairview General Hospital, 18101 Lorain Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, revealed the following information:

DANIEL M. FRIEDMAN, 2475 Virginia Avenue, Washington, D.C., was admitted on July 8, 1974, and discharged on July 15, 1974. Applicant was admitted for an operation to repair a recurrent right inguinal hernia which was done on July 9, 1974. The final diagnosis was shown as this was applicant's third recurrence of a right inguinal hernia. His hospitalization was noted as completely uneventful. COVENANTS

On February 23, 1978, [ ] [ ] advised SA [ ] that a decision by the U. S. Court of Appeals on June 30, 1972 prohibited the recording of deeds in which there were racial covenants. The U. S. Court of Appeals decision stated "Racial Covenants are null and void and unenforceable under our laws." [ ] [ ] further stated that at one time racial covenants were allowed to be recorded but were not enforceable and as of the June 30, 1972 decision racial covenants can neither be recorded nor enforced. Based on this decision there are at present no racial covenants against the property at 3249 Newark Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

It is important to note that the trail is a part of the historic road system and is not a new road. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system.

Section 701 of the National Trails System Act should be modified to allow use of the trail for recreation and normal transportation. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system. It is a road that has been used for many years and is a part of the historic road system.

S 2974 appears to deal with this issue in an acceptable manner. However, we need to consider the possible impact that section 401 of the National Transportation Act might have on future development. Although individual sites along the trail may warrant protection under this section, long segments of the trail must not be included.

In conclusion, I would like to reiterate my endorsement of the legislation before this committee. I also urge the Members to consider the inclusion of boulevards and roads in the trail system to insure that off-road vehicle use be permitted and right-of-way across Federal lands be obtained for possible future surface transportation needs. This measure offers an opportunity to recognize the important historic and recreational values of the Iditarod trail and I support prompt action on this measure.
